NEBRASKA THE MODEL FOR OTHER STATES

Local Jobbing Operations Show No Particular Change During Past

During the summer of 1991 there was a great deal of talk among all classes of Omaha citizens regarding the necessity of having more factories in the city, that should furnish employment to the laboring classes and develop the resources of the state. The Bee took the matter up and made a canvass of all the manufacturing estabisments in the state, and then pointed out that already large manufacturing interests were in existence, but that none of the factories were running anywhere near to their full capacity, owing to the difficulty of selling their products. It was shown that people would pay more money for an article of eastern manufacture than for the same thing made at home, and that there was a prejudice among consumers and re-tail dealers alike against home made goods that condemned them without a trial. It was pointed out, furthermore, that if the people would give the preference to goods made in their own state, price and quality being equal, that the factories already located would soon double their capacity and the number of their employes. Thus the home industry movement was launched and the number of their employes. Thus the home industry movement was launched upon Nebraska.

On August 30, 1891, The Hee suggested that the manufacturers should organize an association for the purpose of furthering the home industry movement, and on September 21 a mass meeting, attended by almost every manufacturers doing business in the city, was held, resulting in the formation of the Manufacturers' and Consumers' Association of Nebraska. The association at once assumed an important position among the commercial organizations of the state, and has maintained it ever since.

At the time of the organization there were a few business men in the city who were afraid that the promulgation of such a doctrine as home patronage would tend to prejudice other communities against Nebraska manufacturers, but on the contrary, it seemed to help them, as buyers in other states looked with more respect upon the men who could command the support of the people of their own community. Instead of criticising the action of Nebraska manufacturers, there was a tendency toward imitation in other states. Movements of a similar character that were more or less successful, were started in Denver, Minneapolis, and more recently in Portland. Tacoma, Sesttle and Victoria in British Columbia.

It has remained, however, for California.

OMAHA'S JOBBING TRADE.

OMAHA'S JOBBING TRADE.

The past week has not been very productive of new features in the jobbing trade of the city. It is, however, a matter of great satisfaction to those interested in the jobbing business to be able to report a continued improvement in the volume of business doing as compared with last year. It does not appear to be confined to any one class of business, but there is a general improvement all along the line as compared with March. 1835. A better feeling is noticeable among the trade in the city and those who are in a position to know say that it extends all over tributary territory. Money is no more plentiful and collections are poor, but there is a growing feeling that the end of dull times is near at hand and that a season of greater prosperity will set in before long, if it is not already commencing.

Reports from most sections of the state indicate that the soil is in good condition and that the acreage of farm crops will be larger than ever.

NEW YORK, March 14.—Weather conditions were of a character to make the demand for winter goods increase. As usual, toward the close of the week, there was a lessened demand in the jobbing departments, though it is certain to be resumed with the opening of the coming week. The outlook gives evidence of improvement; printing cloths, dull, with sales for the week at 32,000 pieces, 64-equare, at 2½c, and $1,000 pieces odds.

No. Pr. No. Pr. No. Pr. 1 cow and calf. $20 00 1 cow and calf. $25 00 HOGS—The run of hogs was fair for a Saturday, there being $250 in the yards, but, as compared with Saturday of last week, there was a falling off of 1,600 head.

The market was highly satisfactory to the sellers. It opened steady and under the influence of free buying on the part of local packers it gained in strength and the close was a shade higher. The trade was active from start to finish and the pens were cleared early in the day.

The range of prices was $3.756.3574, with the great bulk of all the sales at $3.89 and $3.85.

The week closes with the market very nearly in the same notch that it opened at. The market has, in fact, been very monotonous during the past week, but of a character pleasing to the snipper. Prices have shown no very material change from day to day, while the demand has been good and the trade active all the week. Local packets have been free buyers and in addition to their wants there has been a considerable shipping demand, so that sellers have met with no difficulty in keeping receipts cleaned up.
